

| Governmental Meetings

A Governmental Meeting is a meeting which Elected Officials can call for in order to make decisions.

During the meeting, all available officials meet and vote on a choice that must be made.

There must be at least 2 available Elected Officials or a Governmental Meeting cannot be held.

If a draw is decided, then the choice is the "yes", "go ahead" or "prosecutor wins" answer.

Citizens who are not Elected Officials can sit in on Governmental Meetings but they cannot participate in voting unless the Governmental Meeting type specifically calls for citizen voting such as the case for Impeachment.
